SPOTLIGHT ON A...

UNIVERSITY

“At Coventry University, we seek to attract and recruit a diverse student population from all cultures and backgrounds and to make higher education accessible for all who are able to engage with it. If you have a disability, learning difficulty or long-term illness, we can offer you different options which could help you during your university experience.”

EMPLOYER

“Our NHS is built on the values of everyone counts, dignity and respect, compassion, improving lives, working together for patients, and commitment to quality. These values underpin how healthcare is provided, but must also extend to our NHS workforce.”

WORD OF THE WEEK

Personal Statement

A vital part of the university application to highlight why a student wants to study the chosen course and to show admissions tutors why they should offer the student a place on their programme.

A FACT ABOUT EMPLOYMENT

"There were 1,308,825 full-time equivalent (FTE) staff directly employed by NHS England on 30 September 2023.

The number of staff increased across all groups over a 10 year period, doctors by 37.0%, and nurses, midwives and health visitors by 23.1%."

SUCCESS STORIES

"I am Amba, I have a learning disability and a physical disability. I am a member of the Project Choice presenter crew which is an advisory group of current and past NHS interns with a disability. The purpose of our crew is to help to remove stigma from people who have physical and learning disabilities and just give our opinions!

We want everybody to see what people can do, not what they cannot do. The focus should be on the person not their condition."

"If any disabled person wants to go into work, I will say, enjoy it! and get help when needed. People are more than willing to help if you are specific about the things, you want help with. You will learn so many valuable skills including having a voice and confidence."
